

Birmingham Skeptics in the Pub

Prof David Colquhoun

Wed 9th June at 7.30pm

Improbable Science

Professor Colquhoun works in the Department of Pharmacology at University College London. He has been an outspoken critic of pseudoscience and scientific fraud for many years, writing extensively on the topic, including articles in Nature and The Guardian.

He is particularly critical of alternative medicine, and of the decision of a number of UK universities to offer degrees in complementary and alternative medicine, stating that they are "anti-science" and that "universities that run them should be ashamed of themselves." campaign, requiring the University of Central Lancashire to release details of their BSc course in homeopathy.

Colquhoun created his personal website, Improbable Science, devoted to criticism of scientific fraud and quackery, in 2001.

Future Events

Wed Jul 14th
Chris French
The Psychology of Anomalous
Experiences

Wed Aug 11th
Andy Lewis
The Persistence of Delusion

Wed Sep 8th
Tracy King
Storm

Free Entry

(with a suggested donation to cover costs)

At The Victoria, 48 John Bright Street,
Birmingham, B1 1BN

<http://birmingham.skepticsinthepub.org>

http://twitter.com/Brum_Skeptics or find us on Facebook

We will ask for a donation to help pay for the speakers travel and other expenses incurred in setting up the event.